

Do you participate in volunteer work outside of your clinic, for example, school, church, advocacy, community, free clinics?

1. Once a month I volunteer to look after disabled kids so their parents can attend church.
Free clinics that I've helped at: Little Flower, City Rescue.
I work with Habitat or Mustard Seed project about once a quarter.
Offer ongoing premarital counseling.
2. Boy Scouts
3. Over the years I have served in the Methodist Church, Boy scouts, Physician Manpower Training Commission, OSMA, and Blaine County Health Dept.
4. Compassion Clinic in Duncan - I volunteer once a quarter. I belong to and participate with the local Chamber of Commerce. I am an unpaid regular musician in our church. I donate time and resources for music recording to people who have talent but lack resources to produce their own material. When I was full-time at the residency, I belonged/participated in several other medical and community committees/boards. But since "gearing down", those activities in the first paragraph are what I continue to do.
5. Uganda annual mission trip. Annual state fair health screening campaign with Prosfors Africa.
6. I thought about responding to the question "why I don't volunteer" at this current time, but have decided not to. I've had too many bad experiences with the anonymity of the Internet. Do you need to ask?
7. Not no, but heck no. I think a good question to ask next time is how important it is to say you do volunteer work so you look good in front of your colleagues. I have never see this many responses on the list serve before, even though the responses are supposed to be private everyone wanted their response public. Ha Ha, physicians are just like 8th grade school girls, want to be the most popular.
8. I volunteer at a free clinic.
9. I am involved in all sorts of aging, dementia and driving related state and national committees and give lots of community talks. I have just applied for a "Neurology on the Hill" week-long training in DC to learn more about how policy influences the care of our patients and how we can influence policy.
